

Medicare Exemplary Provider Accreditation Awarded to RegenesiS Biomedical

Demonstrating outstanding healthcare delivery practices and compliance

Scottsdale, Arizona, June 16, 2008 /PRNewswire/ -- RegenesiS Biomedical, Inc., a medical technology company that markets the Provant® Wound Therapy System, announced today their accreditation as an Exemplary Provider for Medicare beneficiaries. The Medicare Modernization Act requires that all DMEPOS (Durable Medical Equipment, Prosthetics, Orthotics, Supplies) providers who participate in the Medicare program must be successfully accredited.

“Receiving Medicare accreditation is a significant step for RegenesiS as we expand the availability of Provant to more Medicare and Medicaid patients,” said Virginia Rybski, Acting President of RegenesiS. “Our organization’s core values parallel Medicare’s accreditation quality standards for adhering to ethical business procedures. To earn Exemplary Provider certification, we demonstrated outstanding healthcare delivery practices and compliance to safety, honesty, and compassionate care for our patients and service to clinicians and administrators.”

RegenesiS’ core values include: having a pioneering spirit in the development of new regenerative medical products, striving for excellence in all business aspects, having respect for all people, living and working as a family unified in a common goal, applying integrity in our decision making processes, having compassion for all people, especially our patients, and dedication to improving the lives of all whom we encounter.

About the Provant Wound Therapy System

Provant uses pulsed radio frequency energy (PRFE) to facilitate reduction of the pain and edema associated with post-operative, superficial soft tissues.
